

NEW MEMBERS JOIN THE CONSTRUCTION LEADERSHIP COUNCIL

Ann Bentley (Chairman, Rider Levett Bucknall), Isabel Dedring (Director, Arup) and Leo Quinn (Group Chief Executive, Balfour Beatty) have joined the Construction Leadership Council.

Ann will be taking forward the the supply chain and business model work stream from Madani Sow. Isabel will work on smarter infrastructure though innovation in procurement. Leo will be responsible for the skills work stream, taking over from Anna Stewart.

Co-Chair of the Council, Andrew Wolstenholme said:

“Business models and skills represent two of the most important challenges facing the construction industry. I am extremely grateful for the work Madani Sow and Anna Stewart have done over the last few months. They leave the Construction Leadership Council in a strong position to help raise the bar for a more productive and better skilled industry.”

Co-Chair of the Council, Minister Nick Boles said:

“We are getting Britain building. Isabel, Ann and Leo will bring great expertise to the Construction Leadership Council as it continues to promote innovation, training and business improvement in this vital sector.”
